

ROUMANIA IS NEGOTIATING WITH THE ALLIES

KING REVIEWS ROUMANIAN ARMY AND GREAT ENTHUSIASM PREVAILS

AUSTRIANS BOMBARD ITALIAN TOWNS ON THE ADRIATIC SEA

Advance Guards on Eastern Frontier Fire First Shots—Fierce, Rapid Blows Are Expected to Be Delivered Immediately at Italian Center—Action of Italy Is Denounced Throughout Austria and Germany—Allied Countries Hail Intervention With Delight.

LONDON, May 25.—(2:44 a. m.)—A despatch to the Daily Chronicle from Bucharest says:

"The Roumanian government is negotiating with the allies. King Ferdinand has reviewed the army and great enthusiasm prevails."

Belief Is Strengthened.

LONDON, May 25.—(2:55 a. m.)—The general belief that Roumania is on the brink of war for the fulfillment of her national ideals has been strengthened by Italy's declaration of war against Austria-Hungary, says the Times' correspondent at Bucharest. "Celebrations of the anniversary of the coronation of the late King Carol were held Sunday and were attended with unusual fervor. King Ferdinand and Queen Mary were present at a great military review. The troops wore their field service uniforms of grey khaki instead of the usual parade dress uniform."

States Italian Consul Is Killed.

LONDON, May 24.—(11:12 p. m.)—A despatch to the Exchange Telegraph from Odessa says it is reported that the Italian consul at Constantinople has been killed.

Gives Adhesion to Agreement.

LONDON, May 24.—(8 p. m.)—Italy has given her adhesion to the agreement already signed by the allied powers not to conclude a separate peace. The signature of a formal document to this effect is imminent.

Ambassador Leaves Vienna.

Vienna, May 24.—(via Amsterdam to London, May 25.—(3:53 a. m.))—The Italian Ambassador to Austria-Hungary, the Duke of Avarna, and the members of the embassy staff left here this evening on board a special train by way of Switzerland for Italy. Their departure was without incident.

Allow Little Time to Escape.

LONDON, May 24.—(10:15 p. m.)—Little or no time has been allowed to elapse between the declaration of war and actual fighting between Italy and Austria. Early this morning Austrian aeroplanes, destroyers and torpedo boats descended on the Italian coast of the Adriatic and bombarded towns, including Venice, while in the Tyrol and on the eastern frontier Italian and Austrian advance guards are already in touch and have fired the first shots.

Have Not Disclosed Plan.

The plan of campaign has not yet been disclosed but it is generally believed that attempts to inflict a quick and decisive defeat, or, at least, one that will discourage the Italians, will be undertaken, largely by the Germans under Field Marshal Von Hindenburg.

It is said that German troops, with heavy guns, aeroplanes and Zeppelins, are already passing through the valley of the river Adige in the direction of Verona and that rapid and fierce blows will be delivered almost immediately at the Italian center. This, the Germans doubtless believe, would serve to hold off an Italian advance from the province of Venice, where the flat nature of the country would give the Italians a greater chance of success.

Bitterly Denounce Italy.

Throughout Austria and Germany there is bitter denunciation of Italy, which for the moment has replaced England as the most hated enemy. In the allied countries, on the other hand, Italian intervention is hailed with delight and in the Italian quarters of London and Paris there have been enthusiastic demonstrations and cheering farewells to the Italians leaving for home to join the colors.

Romania, Greece and Bulgaria

as yet have made no move. The government of Bulgaria has reiterated that it will continue to observe an attitude of neutrality so long as Bulgarian interests are not directly affected and it sees no reason why they should be. The opposition, however, is varying the opinion that Bulgaria should seize the opportunity to join with the allies.

Turks Seize Bulgarian Cars.

Bulgaria may be drawn in through an incident which has arisen between her and Turkey over the seizure by Turkey of a number of Bulgarian railway cars loaded with goods. Sofia has lodged a protest against this action. Roumania may be affected by a change of fortune in the battles in middle Galicia.

Russia here is delivering a strong counter offensive and has regained some ground along the San river north of Jaroslavl.

The most important battle, however, is that which is raging to the southeast of Przemysl, where the Austrians and Germans are making repeated attacks, in an endeavor to break the Russian line and thus relieve the pressure which the Russians are bringing to bear on the Germans who crossed the San.

Fighting also is in progress in Courland, along the east Prussian frontier and in Central Poland where the Germans have attempted an offensive along the Rawa river. None of these actions apparently has been decisive, although heavy losses have been suffered on both sides. Russia expresses satisfaction with the situation along her front.

Heavy Fighting in West.

Heavy fighting has been resumed in the western zone, from Arras to the sea, in which both Germans and French claim to have had the advantage. It is evident that the allies do not intend to lax their efforts on this front, although a big general movement has not yet been undertaken. The present operations having as their object improvement in their positions and forcing the Germans to counter-attacks.

The allies have landed additional troops on the Gallipoli peninsula and although progress there must for some time continue to be slow there is every confidence here that the resistance of the Turks will before long be broken. The loss to the allies is heavy as is shown by the casualty lists but it is asserted that the Turks are suffering more severely as they are under cross fire from the ships.

Austrians Prepare for Attack.

Geneva, May 24.—(9:25 p. m.)—via Paris, May 25.—(12:45 a. m.)—A number of armored trains and aeroplanes arrived at Trent today from Innsbruck. The Austrians seem to fear an attack from the Valtellina region and they are therefore making all preparations for that eventuality. Skirmishes occurred today on the banks of the Isone river which flows into the Gulf of Trieste.

An Austrian submarine probably from Pola, was seen off Venice this morning. Two German spies have been taken to Verona.

The Austrian emperor's proclamation to his people recalling the victories over Italy has further inflamed Italian feeling.

Prince Von Buelow, the German ambassador, is expected to reach Chiasso at 9:30 o'clock tomorrow morning. The Swiss government has informed the authorities of the Cantons of Ticino that the Prussian and Bavarian diplomatic representatives at the Vatican will reside at the Episcopal Palace at Lugano during the war.

Advices from Innsbruck say that a furious crowd at Vienna broke through the lines of troops around the Italian embassy and insulted the Italian Ambassador and the members of his staff but the soldiers prevented the mob from entering the embassy building. It is reported here that more than fifty Italians living in the Trentino were shot yesterday as spies because the railroad bridge at Merano was blown up. The Italian troops on the frontier, it is understood will begin their forward movement tonight.

Calm Prevails in Rome.

Rome, May 24.—(via Paris, May 25.—(2:45 a. m.))—Complete calm prevails in Rome. Satisfaction is expressed everywhere at the serenity of the people which is taken to indicate their reliance in the army and navy.

Savoy Commander Bonetto in an article in the Giornale d'Italia today says the declaration of war against Austria was the realization of the secret aspirations of the navy. Owing to the severe discipline in the navy the men were prevented from showing that they favored war but Italian sailors have desired such an event for years, always having been prepared and anxious for a chance "once more to measure themselves with their ancient hated enemy."

Commander Bravetta recalls in his article that some years ago Admiral Paulumbo, who later became minister of the navy stopped his squadron off the Dalmatian island of Lissa where the Austrian navy under Tegethoff defeated the Italians under Persano, July 20th, 1866 and hoisted the signal "remember the dead of Lissa!" All the Italian sailors, the commander says, took a solemn oath to win or to die if good luck again put them before the Austrians.

Now the Duke of the Abruzzi, the article concludes, "like Lord Nelson commands bands of brothers who, united by the same pledge and inflamed by the same idea, are ready for a supreme test in the sacred name of Italy."

DUVAL WEST REPORTS TO WILSON

CONCERNING MEXICAN SITUATION

President's Envoy Is Said to Have Avoided Favoring Any Action—Claims of Victory Comes From Both Sides.

Washington, May 24.—President Wilson received first hand information concerning the Mexican situation tonight from DuVal West, his special commissioner who recently returned from a visit to sections controlled by the different factions.

Mr. West's report was not made public, but it is understood that it will result in no change in the policy of the administration toward Mexico. He is said to have avoided favoring any action, devoting his report to the president to information gathered of conditions generally and about the attitude of the different leaders.

After his conference with the president Mr. West said he would remain in Washington for several days, but that beyond that he had no definite plans. He is not expected to return to Mexico immediately if at all.

Claims of victory from both the Carranza and Villa armies, came to the state department today but there was nothing to indicate that either side had won a decided advantage.

ITALY'S INTERVENTION

DELAYS GERMAN REPLY

Berlin, May 24.—(via London)—Germany's reply to the American note will not be ready for several days. Officials of the foreign office are so occupied with the Italian developments that they have had no time to elaborate the draft of the note. It is pointed out that the delay in the publication of the German reply will give an opportunity for the public to view the situation more dispassionately.

War News Summarized

The war declared by Italy on Austria is not yet in full swing, but small battles are under way along the frontier and the Austrians already have undertaken action against the Italian towns on the east coast, with warships and aeroplanes. The towns shelled and bombed included Venice, Ancona, Porto Corsini, Barletta, Gessi and Potenza Picena.

The bombardment of Ancona is said to have lasted about two hours and Vienna reports that the bombs thrown on the military buildings by the Austrian aeroplanes at that place and on the arsenal at Venice caused "visible damage and fires."

The Italian authorities on the other hand declare that the damage done was slight.

Temporarily the Austro-Italian situation has put the active campaign both in the east and the west somewhat in the background, although in these two war zones, fighting of the most serious nature has been going on. In the east, Russia has begun a new offensive, the advance of the Austro-Germans, seemingly has been checked. Vienna, for the first time in several weeks has failed in the latest official communication to make claims of successes in Galicia, where the Teutonic allies have been driving the Russians before them. The Austro-Germans in this region generally have been thrown on the defensive, according to the Russian war office.

The British commander-in-chief on the continent, Field Marshal Sir John French, reports the evacuation of some trenches by the British troops owing to the use of asphyxiating gas shells by the German artillery to the east of Ypres, where the Germans broke through the British line in several places. The British troops, however, have made new progress in the strategically important territory to the north of La Bassée.

From London comes the announcement that Italy has agreed not to make a separate peace with Austria. This is in line with the agreement already signed by Great Britain, France and Russia.

GERMAN SUBMARINE TORPEDOES

NORWEGIAN STEAMER MINERVA

NEW CASTLE, England, May 24.—(9:15 p. m.)—The Norwegian Steamer Minerva was sunk by a German submarine Saturday night. The crew of the steamer was landed here this evening by the steamer Iris. The captain of the Iris reports that after he had rescued the crew of the Minerva, the submarine sent a torpedo at the Iris, narrowly missing her. The Minerva was bound from South Shields for Norway.

The Steamer Minerva sailed from New York April 16th, for Christiania. She arrived at Kirkwall May 4th, and from there was taken to Shields, arriving in the latter port May 8th. She was a vessel of 2,413 tons and was owned by Jacobson and Sons of Christiania.

WITNESS DENOUNCES METHODS OF WALSH

W. L. MCKENZIE KING PROTESTS AGAINST CONDUCT OF HEARING

Declares He Does Not Like the Way Chairman of Industrial Commission Has Conducted the Examination of Witnesses.

Washington, May 24.—W. L. McKenzie King, director of the industrial relations department of the Rockefeller foundation and a former Canadian cabinet officer, interrupted his testimony before the federal industrial relations commission today to roundly denounce the methods of Chairman Walsh in conducting the commission's Colorado strike inquiry.

Protests Against Method.

"I have seen witness after witness on the stand here treated in a manner that was anything but fair," he said. "In the name of labor I protest against the way this hearing has been conducted."

"You do not like the way investigations are conducted in this country?" asked Chairman Walsh. "I do not like the way the hearing has been conducted," replied the witness.

"You do not like this commission's conduct of the hearings?"

"I do not like the way you, Mr. Chairman, have conducted the examination of witnesses."

"Then you exonerate the rest of the commission?"

"Oh yes."

"Is your objection to the examination?" asked the chairman, "based upon observation of the examination of John D. Rockefeller, Jr. and is it caused in part by the statement you heard a witness make here that he was guilty of high treason?"

Speaks of General Examination.

Mr. King said he spoke only of the general examination of all witnesses. He was questioned at length about his services to John D. Rockefeller, Jr. and to the foundation. He declined to say what salary he received.

The witness' outburst against Chairman Walsh came in the midst of questioning regarding a plan suggested by him to Mr. Rockefeller for dealing with the situation in the Colorado coal fields. The chairman sought to show that the plan would have eliminated union representation on boards of conference between employers and the miners. Mr. King objected strenuously to any inference that he was unfriendly to organized labor.

Bowers Occupies Stand.

L. M. Bowers, veteran former treasurer of the Colorado Fuel and Iron company and now a member of the personal business staff of John D. Rockefeller, Sr., occupied the witness stand the greater part of today's session. He was questioned closely as to the conduct of the strike by coal companies and disclaimed responsibility for the bloodshed which characterized the outbreak.

Exercises Will Be Held There Thursday Night Instead of in Opera House—Seventy-one in Senior Class.

The commencement exercises of the Jacksonville high school will take place Thursday night at 8 o'clock in the David Prince auditorium, instead of the Grand Opera house, which has been the custom for a great many years. The Auditorium will seat 700 aside from the class of 71 which will occupy seats on the platform.

GOETHALS IS FIRST WITNESS AT TRIAL OF TOBACCO MERCHANT

Jacob Salas, With John Burke and Ricardo Bermudez, Is Accused of Conspiracy to Defraud the Government.

New York, May 24.—With Major General George W. Goethals, governor of the Panama canal zone, as the first witness the trial of Jacob Salas, a New York tobacco merchant indicted with John Burke, manager of the commissary department of the zone, and Ricardo Bermudez, ex-governor of Colon, for conspiracy to defraud the government, was begun in the federal court here today.

Salas, Burke and Bermudez are accused of graft transactions in connection with tobacco contracts with the commissary department. A proposal by their attorney that three be tried separately, Salas first, was accepted by the government.

Assistant District Attorney Carstaphen in addressing the jury, said that the government would show that Salas and Bermudez paid Burke $20,000 in eleven installments for tobacco contracts which they obtained from him.

GERMANY TO SEND FORMAL REPLY TO NOTE CONCERNING SHIP FRYE

WASHINGTON, May 24.—Ambassador Gerard at Berlin in a cablegram received at the state department today said the German foreign office shortly would send a formal reply to the American note asking reparation, without reference to prize court proceedings, for the owners of the American ship William P. Frye, sunk by the commerce raider Prinz Eitel Friedrich. The ambassador had been instructed to inquire whether the sending of the Frye case to a prize court was to be regarded as an answer to the note from the United States, suggesting that such a procedure was unnecessary. Germany agreed in the first place to pay for the ship under the old Prussian-American treaty.

The state department late today gave out the following statement: "The department of state has received a cablegram from the American ambassador at Berlin dated May 22nd, 1915, as follows:

"Foreign office states that it did not intend to leave unanswered the note in the William P. Frye case or to reply by sending the ship to prize court. A formal reply shortly will be sent. While under the German laws the action of the prize court in issuing the motion is imperative, it remains totally independent of diplomatic negotiations."

WILL OBJECT TO WATERWAY BILL

Hubbard to Ask That Opponents of Measure Be Given Hearing Thursday

RAINEY MAY SPEAK

Igoe Is Confident House Will Take Final Action on Measure Today and Send It to Senate

MAY VOTE ON BOXING BILL

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., May 24.—When administration leaders attempt to call up Governor Dunne's waterway bill in the lower house of the legislature tomorrow objections will be raised by Representative William Hubbard, Democrat of Carrollton, who will ask that opponents of the bill be given a hearing Thursday at a joint session of the house and senate.

Rainey May Speak.

Representative Hubbard announced that Congressman Henry T. Rainey of Carrollton and probably Lyman G. Cooley, the Chicago engineer, would speak in opposition to Governor Dunne's waterway's plan if granted a hearing. As United States Senators Lawrence Y. Sherman and J. Hamilton Lewis, proponents of the bill addressed a joint session, Representative Hubbard insisted that opponents of the measure be given the same courtesy.

Representative Michael L. Igoe, administration floor leader in the house, was confident tonight that the house will take final action on the waterway bill tomorrow and then send it to the senate. Igoe claims the waterway bill will have in the neighborhood of 95 votes in the house.

War Purchases and Business.

That the orders for war munitions received from abroad are having a large effect on business in this country is certainly evidenced. Russia has recently placed an order for 4000 freight cars and for 2,000,000 pairs of shoes. England and France have given orders for $70,000,000 worth of shrapnel shells. Orders have been given one concern for 1,000,000 rifles. France has purchased 34,000 pounds of sugar and England 45,000,000. France has placed a large order for brick making machines. Millions upon millions of pounds of canned meats have been going to the allies and the shipment of horses continues at the rate of 35,000 a month. The Du Pont powder Co. has 2000 men at work on a plant near Hopewell, Virginia and several large buildings are being erected at New Brunswick, N. J. where thousands of men will be employed in the manufacture of gun cotton. It is said that the contracts secured will keep the factory busy for three years. In other lines too European orders have come in in vast volume and while the effect has been felt only to a somewhat limited extent all over the country there can be no doubt that eventually this prosperity along certain lines will show a large general effect.

Two Calls for Field Service.

While the papers in Europe are advertising for men for army service a call has gone out in the United States papers for men to help harvest the great crops which now seem certain. Fully 100,000 men are wanted by the National Farmers' Exchange, which has headquarters in Omaha, for the harvesting of the big wheat crop, which begins in a few weeks. Beginning in southern Oklahoma early in June, the wheat harvest comes with a rush when it starts. It rapidly moves northward, passing through Nebraska about the third week in July and ending in northern Minnesota just in time to escape the early frosts. The army of temporary workers is being organized intelligently this year, with a view to putting the men at the right spot where they are needed and distributing them to meet all demands.

The crop promises to exceed last year's bumper. The acreage in Nebraska has increased some 600,000 acres in wheat, and in Nebraska alone not less than 75,000,000 bushels are expected.

The first call for labor has taken care of the Oklahoma demands. The men will begin work there next week. From the Canadian river in Oklahoma to the Platte in Nebraska, the country is one great waving wheatfield with the plants in better condition than ever known before. All of the western railroads have called in their cars for the crop movement, and the sidings are now being filled with empties awaiting the arrival of the big farm wagons with their loads of golden grain.

The Farmers' Exchange which is handling the problem of help, was organized in Omaha last February. It is composed of a representative from each of the big wheat-growing states, a representative of each of the big western railroads, representatives of commercial bodies, and others interested in the distribution of labor and harvesting of the crop. The president is Charles McCaffree, commissioner of immigration of South Dakota.

Italy Joins the Allies.

Italy has at last declared war against Austria and has thus cast her lot with England, France and Russia. For months the question of war has seemed to be weighing in the balance but the end has been reached and thus Germany and Austria must now fight against an added land force of 3,880,290 and a navy of 185 ships.

With Italy fighting with the allies it seems that the end is all the more sure and the nearer for certainly Germany and Austria even with their tremendous fighting machine cannot hope to overcome such a superiority of numbers. The world at large seems to understand that Italy is going into the war at this time as a matter of expediency believing that the nation has a chance to once more hold the larger place among the nations that was hers before the loss of territory to Austria. Her demands on Austria for the Tyrol as far north as Brenner Pass and the Austrian ports of Trieste and Pola together with the Hungarian port of Fiume were made because this was believed to be a crucial time when Austria would yield or be forced to yield. Further Italy seems to have had the feeling that if she put her strength into the great conflict that when the end came that she would be in position to enforce the demands already made or others which would add to her territory and prestige.

That the people themselves want the war was indicated some days ago when serious riots followed the resignation of Premier Salandra. In Milan and Rome crowds of 50,000 men and women paraded the streets shouting "Death to Giolitti", the statesman who had opposed the war program, "Death to Francis Joseph" and "Death to Kaiser Wilhelm". The time was only recently when the people were taught to look upon France as an enemy, but this feeling seems to have been deflected from Austria the ancient enemy simply because there seemed to be no hope of wresting the coveted territory from Austria. While the declaration of war has been delayed preparations have been going on for months, the frontier has been cleared for the conflict, the passes have been fortified and garrisoned, the fleet headed by five dreadnaughts has been assembled and 1,200,000 young men are under arms.

To add all of the Italian forces to the seething war caldron simply for the purpose of securing more territory and power, seems a crime but there comes the thought that Italy's entry may hasten the day when the awful European bloodshed shall cease.

Mrs. McCormick Suffrage Champion.

A very strong and attractive woman is Mrs. Medill McCormick who addressed a Jacksonville audience Monday evening. Mrs. McCormick's special mission is to present arguments for the equal suffrage of women and present them she can with a logic, an eloquence, an enthusiasm which is contagious. One man who was in the audience last night seemed to give expression to the general feeling when he said after the address, "Well, I already believed in suffrage for women, but if I had not, I surely would have been converted tonight." Mrs. McCormick has something of the personal charm of manner of her father, the late Mark Hanna, long the close friend of President McKinley.

The machinations of self seeking politicians and the bugbear of states rights are two of the reasons the speaker assigned as delaying suffrage work but she indicated that the workers in the movement are not in the least discouraged and believes that the accomplishment of their purpose, equal rights for women is not far distant. Mrs. McCormick argues that far from taking woman's interest from the home that the ballot is necessary that woman may protect her home and be a more efficient and capable wife and mother. Many men and some women may oppose woman's suffrage but when it comes to a matter of reasoning and argument certainly the advocates of equal suffrage have the best of it. Woman has a right to vote, if she wants to.

The serious work of woman in politics is well illustrated by the manner in which the suffrage committee is campaigning for the fall election in New York city. Before November every voter in the metropolis will have heard the arguments for woman's political rights from suffrage lips. Workers will canvass the city by blocks and districts and the great feature of the campaign, pointed out Mrs. Medill McCormick in her talk last night, is that ninety per cent of the workers are unpaid. Men workers demand remuneration, but these women, many of them able to give but a small part of each day, seem to be working with heart and soul in the cause.

New York is admittedly a pivotal point politically. As the city goes, so goes the state and seldom does New York state vary on questions of national import, from the country as a whole. These women are fighting for the vote with a vigor and method never before seen. Their efforts may do much toward making equal suffrage a nation-wide.

WOMAN IN POLITICS AND WHAT SHE SEEKS AS TOLD BY MRS. MCCORMICK

National Suffrage Leader Says the Politician and Not the Men of America are to Blame for Backward Conditions.

"Antiquated law, the states' rights bugbear and the machinations of self-seeking politicians are the three factors which keep down woman's rights as a citizen and oppose equal suffrage," said Mrs. Medill McCormick Monday evening at the David Prince auditorium, speaking to members of the Woman's club and the Civic League as well as a number of interested citizens. "The American Man," said Mrs. McCormick, is hardly to be blamed. It is the political trickster, the legal hairsplitter, the stickler for outworn states' rights theories, who stand in the way of woman's advancement and keep her from her natural duty as a responsible member of the body politic.

Mrs. McCormick spoke to a crowded house and her sallies of wit and her sprightly phraseology kept the audience alive with interested enthusiasm. Mrs. McCormick is a master of her subject and as a leader in the national suffrage organization speaks from a fund of information gained from many battles in her home city, in the state and in the nation. At the close of her address Mrs. McCormick took a few minutes in description of "Your Girl and Mine," the suffrage picture which will appear in Jacksonville at Scott's this afternoon and evening. Mrs. McCormick is author of this play and assisted in its production. It has been duplicated a number of times and the profits from its presentation are all given to assist suffrage work.

Visiting the President.

Especially interesting were Mrs. McCormick's accounts of visits to members of congress and to the president. Congressmen she found of all shades and degrees of political color and belief. Progressive Republicans, standpat Democrats, conservative Republicans and Democrats labeled progressive enunciated their views, each and all, and in the combinations when the suffrage amendment was called out for vote, there were found strange and diverse political bedfellows. Mrs. McCormick dipped into prophecy as toward the close of her address she told what enfranchised woman, 4,500,000 strong, may do in the next presidential campaign.

"Without the vote women cannot be good wives nor efficient mothers; they cannot protect home and children, nor can they do their part for the uplift and preservation of the race. In nation, state and municipality they must have the ballot, and everywhere they realize their responsibility. Women the country over are thinking hard and working consistently. Results of elections we women can no more predict than can the men, but we do know that women in large numbers, thinking thus closely, and working with vigor, will act promptly. Unforeseen results may come with the next national clash of political parties. We may say to the men 'For forty-six years we have asked for a voice by a grant of the ballot; for forty-six years we have been answered with flat denial. This once we are going to vote as women, with foresight and determination. We propose to champion the cause and defend the intelligence and equality of women as citizens of the United States.'

The Fight in Illinois.

"We went to Springfield and fought a hard fight," said Mrs. McCormick in referring to the struggle which has made Illinois the first suffrage state east of the Mississippi. "With the leverage thus gained we went to the national convention. 'Now is the time to act,' we insisted. We formulated an amendment to the constitution of the United States and though the fate of our efforts was severe defeat, we propose to keep on trying until our goals are gained. To those of us who imagine we live in a great democracy, the realization that five, six or seven congressmen can hold in their hands the destinies of men and measures, and control absolutely the workings of our lower house, comes as a severe shock to wanted complacency.

"We women are planning a bureau of records in Washington; we propose to keep tabs on our representatives. We want to be able to fight effectively the rank misrepresentation such men as Henry, Mann and Underwood have practiced. We are going to continue this work. We are going to voice our cause and scatter information until the women of this country are informed; until they are able to read their congressional records; to know how their representatives vote and to realize their responsibility as American citizens."

CARD OF THANKS.

We desire to thank the friends who so kindly assisted us during the sickness and after the death of our brother, Robert Shaffer. We especially thank the old soldiers as he was a valued member of the G. A. R. and we are grateful also for the beautiful flowers.

Rent Houses Wanted

There has never been a time when desirable rent houses, $7.50 to $25, were scarcer at Johnston Agency than they are today. Our facilities for securing the right renter for the right house are good. Being the only agency in the city making a specialty of this business, a constant stream of applicants pours through our office. We know what is due to tenants in the way of repairs, and our tenants stay. On the other hand, we collect all rents in advance, and we do not, upon the average, lose a full month's rent upon one house a year.

Landlords—We think you will find it profitable, and save yourselves a great amount of trouble, if you will let us attend to your rentals. We have made a science of it. And we respectfully solicit your business.

PLAY BY CLASSICAL CLUB WAS SUCCESS

ANTIGONE OF SOPHOCLES GIVEN FINE RENDITION.

Performance Staged on Campus of Illinois Woman's College Was a Great Credit to Students and to Those Having it in Charge.

The Antigone of Sophocles was presented under the auspices of the Classical Club of Jacksonville by students of Illinois college, Illinois Woman's college, the College of Music, the Conservatory and the high school on the campus of the Woman's college Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Extra seats had been arranged for the accommodation of the large audience present and the production as a whole was of a high order and splendidly interpreted. The stage settings were unique and the costumes especially fitting the play. The day was ideal and those who witnessed the performance were high in their praise of its excellence. Too much credit cannot be given Dr. Rollin H. Tanner of Illinois college who had charge of the entire performance. To him fell the lot of choosing the play to be given, picking out the characters, training them in their several parts, and assembling the play. He has worked incessantly and assiduously and his untiring efforts were certainly rewarded.

The leading roles were taken by Henry Caldwell and Miss Rebecca Scheibel. Both of these players had leading roles in the Electra, given last year and are well known by Jacksonville people for their histrionic ability. Mr. Caldwell as Creon the obstinate king, gave a masterly reading and interpretation of his lines. The enunciation, the use of his voice, and the acting so well suited to the words left little to be desired.

Miss Scheibel as Antigone showed the same vigor in the portrayal of her character which she displayed last year. She spoke with earnestness and a depth of feeling, which showed how fully she lost herself in her work. Miss Scheibel is endowed with a magnificent voice, which added much to the rendering of the lines, and was especially effective in her farewell songs, which were given with the poise and mastery, which usually marks her voice work. It would be hard to find amateur actors who have so great a power to please their audience as Miss Scheibel and Mr. Caldwell.

Especially worthy of mention, also, is the work of Miss Ennis, as Ismene, sister of Antigone. She excelled in the modulation of her voice and the intelligent reading of her lines. She was especially well suited to the part.

The character of the queen who is driven by the news of Haemon's death to take her own life, was well portrayed by Miss Esther Cohen and the recital of the death by a trusted attendant of the palace was delivered with real sympathy by John Capps Irwin.

An interesting role was that of the Watchman with his mixture of impertinence and fear. This part was taken by Roy Newberry, who was especially successful in the representation of this character. The attendants and others taking part, added much to the merits of the entertainment.

Music for the play was given by an orchestra consisting of 21 pieces under the direction of Mr. Henry V. Stearns. The Mendelssohn music was arranged by Mr. Stearns especially for this production.

The arranging of music for a performance of this kind is a very arduous task and Mr. Stearns deserves high commendation for the successful manner in which this work was done and for his efficient work with the orchestra as its conductor.

The personnel of the orchestra included musicians from the Conservatory, College of Music and Jeffries' band.

Conductor—H. V. Stearns.
First Violins—Miss Eloise Capps, Miss Carrie Dunlap, Miss Mabel Forrester, Miss Alma Forsythe, Miss Ruth Lawson, Miss Carrie Mackness, Miss Helen Sorrells.

Second violins—Byron Carpenter, Harold Dunlap, Miss Helen Frazer, Miss Bonita Olson, Mrs. Katherine Schroll, Miss Beulah Smith.

Violas—Earl Briscoe, Karl Hill, John Kearns, Charles Stone.
Piano—Miss Edith Hillerby.
Cellos—Viggo Jensen, Paul Morrison.

Bass—William Bartlett.
Flute—M. E. Gilbert.
Oboe—Percy A. Jenkinson.
Clarinet—Evan Hawk.
Tassoon—Wilbur Jeffries.
Cornet—Charles Shepard.
Trombone—Harold Johnson.
Trumpet—Leo Johnson.

The work of the chorus was especially worthy of mention. The choral songs were well sung and the choral dances which accompanied the songs were one of the most pleasing features of the play, and were executed by the young ladies in an artistic manner. They also reflected great credit upon Miss Julia Herren of Chicago who arranged them and instructed the chorus in their executions.

Miss Romaine Loar as the Coryphaeus is to be commended for her efficient leading of the chorus and her pleasing solos. In the episodes of the play she was one of the speaker characters also.

The other numbers were: Norah Alexander, Ila Allen, Mildred Applebee, May Bigger, Wylma Cox, Gretchen Franken, Margaret Goldsmith, Johanna Onken, Mabel Osburn, Edna Robb, Mildred Spencer, Marie Towle, Phyllis Wilkinson, Dorothy Westphal, Margaret

Wylder, Mr. Edwin Smith.

The other members of the cast are: Watchmen, John Furry, Lloyd Cully; Messengers, Royal Davis, John Capps Irwin; Attendants to the Priest, McKendree Blair, John Strawn; Attendants to Eurycle, Gladys Galaway, Miriam Akers, Lindley Williamson. Attendants to Creon, Royal Davis, Albin Molohon, Creon, Royal Davis, Albin Molohon, Uriel Gouveia, Wilbur Rodgers, Leo Stein, Floyd Williamson, Joel Crouch and Wilson Akers; House Attendants John Furry, Lloyd Cully, McKendree Blair and John Strawn.

Russel.

The funeral of William G. Russel was held at the late residence of the deceased Monday afternoon and was one of the largest that has taken place in Woodson for a long time. The services were in charge of Rev. J. L. Coleman, pastor of Mr. Russel. Prayer was also offered by Rev. Edwin Harris of Palmyra, and formerly pastor at Woodson, and by Dr. G. W. Miller, a life long friend of Mr. Russel. Rev. John Gallagher, of Kentucky, and a cousin of Mr. Russel spoke briefly and most suitably paid a tribute to the rich inheritance of the deceased.

Mr. Russel inherited a good name which the wise man says is rather to be chosen than great riches. The name of Russel is honored in this community by all who ever knew the family. Its members have been persons of unswerving integrity and purity of life.

He inherited a love for home and humanity. Home to him was ever the dearest and best place on earth. He was ever devoted to his loved ones and happiest when ministering to their welfare and pleasure. He loved humanity and his hand was ever open to the call of the worthy cause, the needy and distressed. He loved to tender sympathy when needed and to minister to the wants and wishes of all whom he knew and the worthy stranger he never sent away empty.

Mr. Russel inherited a clear cut faith and was not at all troubled by the modern doubts which have done so much to undermine true religion. Like his honored father, he knew in whom he trusted; the scriptures to him were an infallible guide to his faith and practice and he had no troublesome doubts regarding them.

Beautiful and appropriate music was furnished by Mrs. Andrew Russel, Miss Baxter, Messrs. William Colton and George Cunningham. The flowers were cared for by Misses Edith and May Nicol and Sadie Irwin, Mrs. J. G. Capps and Miss Russel. The honorary bearers were Messrs. James Craig, Thomas Irlam, J. T. Blimling and John Howland. The active bearers were Messrs. Irvin Sheppard, Wm. Colton, Thos. Hembrough, John Baxter, Wm. Nicol and Edward Bradley. Interment was in Diamond Grove cemetery.

McClure.

George Williams, pastor of the First Congregational church. The action of S. S. S., the famous blood purifier, is notable in the skin. It is but natural that blood impurities should seek an outlet. Water, gas, oil and nearly all the active products of nature seek the surface. It seems to be a cosmic law. Even our thoughts will undertake to find expression. And so whatever we take into our system will eventually come out changed in form, converted often into some other substance, but constituting always either waste or that which has served its useful purpose and must be eliminated. And the skin is the principal avenue for escape of certain acids or poisons. If the skin and blood be healthy, these wastes pass off as vapor or perspiration. But impure blood loads the skin with eczema, pimples, acne, rheumatism, rash, fever blisters, blood risings and other eruptions. And S. S. S. has been found the very best, safest and most effective remedy to purify the blood and thus restore the skin to clear and attractive health. Get a bottle today of any drugist, but be emphatic. Do not allow anyone to hand you a substitute. Wrap around the bottle is an interesting circular that tells you how to obtain skillful advice free on any subject concerning the blood.

COUNCIL STILL WORKING ON FINANCIAL PROBLEM

Satisfactory Report Hoped for in Two Weeks—Plans for Decoration Day—Morton Avenue Road Project Discussed.

The city council held a somewhat extended session Monday morning, the greater part of the time being occupied with a statement by A. C. Rice with reference to the Morton avenue road and the discussion resulting from this statement. A number of the G. A. R. were present to talk concerning plans for the observance of Decoration day and the council agreed to look after the financial arrangements for the day. The call to order came about the usual time and after the ordinary formalities the clerk read a communication from City Attorney Paul Thompson, to whom had been referred the claims of Earl C. Lewis, injured at the La-Crosse Lumber company yard, and James Hoyt, who was employed at Diamond Grove cemetery. The city attorney gave it as his opinion that the city has no liability in either case.

Save the Trees.

Mayor Rodgers reported that no definite arrangements have been made with reference to the payment of accounts against the city or the conduct of the business until further funds are available from taxation. The mayor said that the water was still being worked upon and that the chances were favorable that satisfactory arrangements could be made. Commissioner Cox reported that a maple tree on Pine street between the property of Mr. Briggs and Mr. Corrington interferes somewhat with the approach to Mr. Briggs' lot and said that the property owners asked that the city remove the tree.

Mayor Rodgers suggested that if there was any possible way of putting in a driveway diagonally in order to avoid the necessity of removing the tree that this should be done. This brought the remark from the mayor also that later on something should be done in the line of systematically planting out new trees along the streets where there are vacant spaces or where trees are becoming so old that their destruction is only a matter of a few years.

Commissioner Vasconcellos reported that there are frequent requests for authority from property owners to use water through the tap of some adjoining property. He quoted the city ordinance which forbids this except in certain special cases and said that it should be his rule unless otherwise directed by the council to insist that there must be a separate tap for each consumer. Otherwise if a customer does not pay his water bill it is impossible to shut off the water without interfering with the service of other customers who are paying. The exception to the rule it is understood was made in order to keep the West College street asphalt pavement intact. Commissioners Widmayer and Martin both stated that there was nothing special to report from their departments.

A committee of G. A. R. members was present including Commodore Benjamin Wood, R. R. Stevenson, C. Riggs Taylor, W. H. Jordan, Ezra Scott, J. W. Melton and John Minter, for the purpose of asking the council to co-operate in the arrangements for Decoration day. Mr. Jordan was the spokesman, and said that the council last year took the responsibility for the financial arrangements for the day and he hoped that the present council would do likewise. He also extended an invitation to the officers and to the police and fire departments to take part in the parade. He mentioned that it had been customary for the city to furnish the flags which are placed upon the graves of veterans. It takes about 400 for this purpose and Mayor Rodgers thought that it might be well for the cemetery authorities to purchase the flags and then to keep them from year to year for Decoration day purposes. The council very willingly acquiesced in the request of the veterans and Commissioner Widmayer said that he would take the lead in securing the necessary funds. Secretary Weber of the Chamber of Commerce who was present, said he would co-operate with Mr. Widmayer in this work. It will be necessary to raise from $75 to $100. Mayor Rodgers said that he would give $10 to the fund and Commissioners Cox, Widmayer and Martin each pledged $5.

The Morton Avenue Roadway.
A. C. Rice was present on behalf of land owners along the Morton road who are very desirous that the easement remaining between the west end of the hard road now being constructed and the Morton avenue pavement be filled in. Mr. Rice said that the present time is very advantageous for the work for the reason that it would cost several hundred dollars to get contractors' equipment, on the job and the contractor who is now building the hard road could take care of the construction of the Morton avenue pavement. Mr. Rice said the estimate for the work was $3,500 and he was confirmed in this by City Engineer Henderson. Mr. Rice stated that several farmers and land owners have already raised a fund of $1,285 for the work; that they know now where this sum can be increased to $1,415, and are willing to pledge that the farmers will give $2,000 for the work if the city will undertake to furnish the balance. They do not make this as a standing offer, but are willing to contribute if the work can be done now.

Mayor Rodgers said there was no question as to the desirability of the improvement and that to secure the most benefit from the hard road that certainly it should be connected ed up with the Hardin avenue pavement. He said that the question was how to secure the money, since the city has none and has no prospect of securing any which would be available for this work. He said there was some possibility that the newly appointed road commissioners may later have some funds at their disposal. In the same connection the mayor mentioned that the understanding existed with the board of county commissioners that the farmers and land owners instrumental in having the Morton road designated for hard road improvement would see to it that the remaining space between the city limits and the Hardin avenue pavement was taken care of.

Mr. Rice said that he didn't know how that investment was given, but it might have been one or two property owners who made statements which the county commissioners had thus interpreted. He was sure, however, that there was nothing on record which would indicate this promise and that the majority of the farmers interested in the movement had certainly not intended to make such a promise. In fact he said that they considered that in raising $2,000 that they were making a very liberal proposition.

Mr. Martin said that he knew that certain property owners had agreed to see to it that the distance between the city limits and the pavement on Johnson street was paved if the Springfield road was designated for state aid, but he did not know anything about an agreement with reference to Morton avenue. Mayor Rodgers assured Mr. Rice that the council was very much interested in the proposition and would take it up with the county commissioners and with the property owners and that if anything could be done toward having the work done that the city certainly desired that this thing should happen.

"THE FOUR JUDGEMENTS" WAS SUBJECT OF SERMON

The Rev. Percy W. Stephens Preaches Strong Discourse at the First Baptist Church.

The series of "Through the Bible" sermons being given at the First Baptist church by the pastor, the Rev. Percy W. Stephens, has been of increasing interest. On Sunday last, two sermons of the series were given on the topics of "The Millennium Kingdom," and "The Four Judgments," the latter sermon given in the evening, was preceded by a baptismal service at which time several new members of the church were baptized.

The series has been running for about two and a half months, and will close on Sunday morning next when the eleventh sermon will be given, the subject being "The New Heaven and the New Earth." The large colored diagram, designed by Mr. Stephens for illustrating these sermons has been used each Sunday, and will be used on Sunday morning next.

In speaking of the Millennium Kingdom, Mr. Stephens said: "Edward Gibbon the historian said, 'The ancient and popular doctrine of the Millennium appears to have been the reigning sentiment of orthodox believers from Justin Martyr down to Lactantius, the precursor of the son of Constantine.' 'The purpose of this kingdom is two fold. First, that the scripture might be fulfilled which predict its coming, and second, that the world might have a perfect for not government. I have here quotations from leading articles in three leading papers of the world, the Pittsburgh Gazette, the London Times, and the Paris Le Journal, all of which say that the world is in need of a superior man who will give it a perfect government. That man will be found in Christ, and the perfect government will be enjoyed where He reigns.

"The nature of the kingdom is clearly described in the word of God. It will last for one thousand years, and Christ will reign in person. Jerusalem will be the center of government for the world, and Satan will be bound and cast into the abyss for the entire thousand years. A man once told me that we were now living in the millennium, and that Satan was already bound. I could only answer by saying that I thought if Satan was bound he must have a very long chain for he seemed to be greatly in evidence in Chicago! The church will reign with Christ over the earth during the millennium and Palestine will be restored to the Jews and redivided, each tribe having a section of the country which stretches from the sea-border across the land.

"The results of the kingdom will be far reaching. Not only will Israel be wonderfully blessed, but the very nations of the earth will experience marvellous changes. There will be no war, and human life will be rightly valued. Longevity will be restored, sickness will be removed, and our Jacksonville institutions will then have no patients. Social conditions will be righted so that profit will go to the toilers. Animals will lose their ferocity, and vegetation will prosper, so that the conditions of the garden of Eden will be practically restored.

"There is a remarkable and well known pointing by William Strutt on the Millennium Kingdom of Christ. In this picture a little child is seen with its arm around the neck of a calf, and the whole scene is that of serenity and beauty. It is coming, and may our Lord hasten that coming."

Charles H. Race expects to leave the latter part of the week for Oregon for an indefinite stay.

EUROPEAN WAR NOTES

Vienna, via London, May 24.—(6:55 p. m.)—The Austrian war office announced today that fighting had begun along the Italian border, where a number of small battles are under way. Italian cavalry has appeared on the coast, near the frontier.

The statement follows: "The general situation in the northeastern theatre of war is unchanged. Battles continue in middle Galicia. During the engagements of the last few days in the hilly country of Kielce, Russian Poland, 30 officers and 6,300 soldiers have been captured.

"In the southwestern theatre of war, after the declaration of war small battles were begun at some places in the Tyrol on the frontier. In the frontier area on the coast, Italian cavalry appeared near the frontier town of Strassoldo."

London, May 24.—(10:14 p. m.)—Field Marshal Sir John French sends the following report of the western war zone under date of May 24th:

"In the fighting of May 16th and 17th, to the northeast of Festubert seven machine guns were captured and it is possible that more may be buried in the destroyed trenches. Today three German batteries were silenced by our guns, one battery being destroyed by direct hits and its ammunition blown up. East of Ypres, the Germans developed an infantry attack this morning under cover of a poisonous gas, hostile artillery at the same time firing asphyxiating gas shells. Our troops were forced to evacuate some of their trenches and the enemy penetrated our line in two or three places. Fighting is still in progress and portions of our original line have already been retaken.

Paris, May 24.—(10:25 p. m.)—The following official communication was issued by the war office tonight:

"Between Neuport and Ypres a spirited artillery engagement has taken place, caused by the efficacious fire of our heavy artillery on the ship yards of Raver Zyde, southwest of Ostend.

"To the north of LaBasse the British attacks have resulted in new progress.

"To the north of Neuville, St. Vaast, the Germans attempted an advance with very important forces. Caught under the fire of our artillery, they were at once checked and suffered large losses.

"Supplementary reports received today emphasize the importance of the success attained by us yesterday to the northwest of the chapel of Notre Dame De Lorette. In a sanguinary engagement with the bayonet, we annihilated those forces which had opposed us and captured several machine guns.

"On the rest of the front, there is nothing new."

PRISONERS TO CHESTER.

Sheriff Graff and Deputy Sheriff Howard Wannamaker returned Monday from Chester where they took three prisoners who have received sentence at this term of court. The prisoners were Oscar Stewart, who was found guilty of burglarizing Johnson's tailoring establishment; James Wells, who stole several articles at Dunn's store, and Thomas Drake, alias Thomas King, who was the principal in the robbery of the Sinclair station. The last mentioned gave the name of King here but the prison authorities said that his real name was Drake and that he had twice served prison terms at Chester.

An entertainment was given for the children of the Sunday school and the soldiers of the Salvation Army at the Barracks Monday evening. The entertainment was in charge of Capt. SOME ALFAFA EXPERIENCES

Morris Seymour residing in the vicinity of Woodson has been quite successful in raising alfalfa. Last year he cut 22 tons from five acres and had four cuttings. He says he didn't have to do anything to his land except inoculate the soil. He will not say lime stone and phosphate are not good but he has gotten along without them so far. He has had some remarkable experiences with the crop. Last year he cut some that had considerable rain and was quite dark, almost black, and he had little expectation that it would be eaten by his stock but they ate every stalk of it greedily.

A neighbor had some that was so damaged by weather as to be really black and he gave it to a friend on condition that the stuff was taken off the land. The man took it and in the winter fed it to his stock and it was eaten up and clean.

C. P. Henderson, in the neighborhood of Litterberry, sowed seven acres this spring, simply inoculating the soil, and says he will have a crop to cut in July and thinks it will yield a good part of a ton to the acre. He sowed his crop on land that had been once cropped after being in blue grass a good while and it was in good condition.

Mr. Seymour said he once bought in St. Louis some seed which was weedy and the crop was to be plowed up. Since that time he has sent northward for his seed and has received a good article.

CEMETERY FLOWER THIEVES.

Complaint comes from Jacksonville cemetery that thieves are taking flower planted on graves in that home of the dead. It seems well nigh impossible that any one could do such a thing but there are all sorts of people in the world. Certain it is that if the sexton catches any one at the business he will speedily make an example of him.

THE AGENTS

The agents are a cheerful bunch, whose talk has optimistic pitch; they have the nerve, they have the punch, yet few of them get beastly rich. I wonder why they try to sell such junk as no man wants to buy? They come and seek me where I dwell, and talk until I wish to die, and always what they have for sale is something I would never use; why don't they try to get the kale by selling overalls or shoes? Why don't they handle mops or brooms, or books a normal man would read, or offer made-to-order tombs, or something you and I might need? But no, they bring a drive-book, by feeble-minded author penned, and try by every hook or crook, to dump it on their humble friend. They try to sell a patent churn to one who never owned a cow, or bring a lamp that will not burn, and recommend it to the frau. They bring us health restoring drugs when we are feeling fine as wheat, they offer costly Persian rugs to folks who haven't things to eat. They are a blithe and cheerful bunch, the smiles they wear are glad and sweet; they have the nerve, they have the punch, but can't connect with Easy Street.

A LETTER FROM BRAZIL

The following interesting letter was recently received by Mrs. Mary T. Carriel from her son, Rev. C. A. Carriel, whose missionary work in Brazil takes him far into the interior.

Rua Batel 118, Curitiba, Brazil, March 25, 1915

Dear Mother: I have been out on my first trip and am back again. Cannot help but give thanks to God for good health and increased strength during 22 days travel, preaching almost every day. I have come back after this first real insight into the life of the Brazilian with new faith in God and a new sense of the great opportunity to preach the Gospel in South Brazil. The people are more open to the message of the Master and I had supposed in fact they seem to be waiting for what Protestantism has to offer them. I am convinced that if all who are convinced that there is only one Saviour of men should openly profess their faith that thousands would come; there is lacking only leadership and the sense of security which is found in great multitudes banded together by common convictions.

On the first of March I went to Paranaguá, where I took the steamer for San Francisco of the South, as they call it to avoid confusion with the other San Francisco in California. The elder, who is an officer in the customs house, met me on the ship and took me ashore to the government boat. It is curious that most of the members of the church there are government employees and officers in the customs house. The publicans have entered the kingdom in S. Francisco.

S. Francisco is a little seaport of about one or two thousand inhabitants. No one, of course, knows for there is no government census in Brazil. Its chief service to humanity is an inlet for German immigrants and outlet for German exports; it is the port of the German colony of the state of S. Catharina. The church there is perhaps twenty years old, but because of its isolated position its history has been one of struggles and human weaknesses. Imagine a church in the United States whose members are the first generation of Protestant Christians, and who have sometimes passed a whole year without a single visit from a minister! Should we not be patient? Of course, as in all little towns, there are no secrets, and family matters are town gossip. There are those who speak, and those who do not; there are friends and others. I received a cordial welcome from the members of the church. We had services ("conferencias") every night, beginning with Tuesday and ending the following Monday. The past history of the church has not been such as to draw crowds to the meetings, yet the average attendance was perhaps 40. We visited all the members in the afternoons and learned much about the others in almost every house. They were discouraged and divided. My chief work was to settle a quarrel between two of the most prominent members and to organize again the Sunday school which had been abandoned because of the quarrel. I was glad to get a letter from the elder after I got home, saying that things were going well since the visit of the missionary and giving evidence of the renewed enthusiasm and work on his part.

From S. Francisco I went to Rio Negro. After crossing the bridge which connects the island of S. Francisco with the mainland, we crossed perhaps 20 miles of lowlands, a tropical forest on each side of the track, where bananas grew wild, and then we wound our way up the coast and stairs mountains, or "Serra," which is the stairs, to the tableland of the interior. I was glad to pass through the Germany of Brazil. The houses along the railroad were of German design. The people at the stations were German, spoke German, and the exports of butter, etc., showed the traditional thrift of that people. This is the part of Brazil the German emperor's brother wanted to visit and was forbidden by the Brazilian government. All through that part of the country are German schools supported by the emperor. In some towns the Germans do not learn Portuguese; the Brazilians learn German. The Brazilians know why the kaiser supports schools in Brazil and they rejoice in every victory of the allies. While I was picking out hymns with a German pastor in one town he said: "That is the tune to which we sing, 'Deutschland über Alles.'"

Mr. Leighton and I had agreed to meet in Rio Negro and begin work there together, for no Protestant work had been done there save that of the German Lutherans. But he was prevented from coming by illness in his family and no one met me at the station. While I was waiting I met Mr. La Point, who is at present acting manager of the large American Lumber Co. at Tres Barros. He was glad to see a fellow countryman and told me how the Americans had escaped from Tres Barros with a boxcar and engine on the night that the "fanatics" threatened to attack, and enforced their threats by firing on all sides. That was months ago and the "fanatics" are now driven into the hills farther west and are besieged by a small army of the government.

Before going to a hotel I went to see the man we count on to manage our propaganda there and was invited to stay at his house. He was a little discouraged. Bills had been scattered throughout the town announcing our series of meetings, which Mr. Leighton was to have, but the night before, but could not come. Our friend had engaged a large German club or theatre and was afraid that our failure to hold the first meeting as announced might give a bad first impression. Senior Jose had been there only four months and did not know many people, but those he knew we visited and invited. There are just four Christians there, Senior Jose, his wife and brother, and Senior Carolino, son of the deacon of the San Francisco church, but we sang our hymns with enthusiasm and without an instrument. The people listened and received their first impressions of the religion of the Master, of which there is astounding ignorance and distorted conceptions. There were only a few at each meeting throughout the week, but some showed real interest. After every service I offered to answer any questions and gave away and sold literature and bibles. It was a new experience to preach while men gabbled in an adjacent room and drank and talked.

There were some interesting men there. The first night I noticed a traveling man who gave close attention. The next day I met him in a store and he said: "Your religion won't do for our backward people. To follow your religion it is necessary to know how to study, to know for one's self and to follow a very narrow way. It won't do for us. Our religion does not demand anything of us." Another man who was seemingly friendly to us said to others: "That religion is of the devil." When I heard of his remark I told my friends that he was not the first Pharisee who had said the same thing, and I told what the Pharisees had said of Jesus, how he performed his wonders by the power of Bezeleebub. There was an elderly man there the first night. The second night he brought his wife and the third night he stayed at home so his wife could bring his daughter. They came every night. I visited him two or three times while there. He had studied the bible in Curitiba when a boy, had given away several bibles and still had a New Testament. He wanted to sell bibles for me. One young man, of German blood came every night and on the last night brought his whole family, father and mother, brothers and sisters. They will be a stable element to count on. Another man belonged to a society in San Paulo which taught "the same thing." His society which taught the same thing is the "Esoteric Circle of the Communion of Thought." He leads a good life and may "accompanhar nos" (follow us). There was another young man there who heard the gospel preached for the first time. He bought a bible and invited me to his home, where he communicated his plan of being the elder of the church to be. When I left we traveled part way together; he was interested in Brazilian whiskey and lottery tickets. I fear he is what the Brazilian calls "fogo de palha," a straw fire, a rocky soil, where the seed soon sprouts and soon withers. When we left Rio Negro the gospel had entered the town and a small group, who will be the first members of a new church, began to "seek Jesus."

We went on to La Lapa with the confidence of the son of the air and rocky soil and thorns some seed had fallen on good ground. I did not know what to expect in Lapa. We had no work there and I had only the name of an elder of the Curitiba church, who had left touch with us. He received me kindly at the station, however, and invited me to his house, where I received all the attentions of Brazilian hospitality. There was some curiosity to see how "Protestant" meetings would be received. Years ago some one had preached there, but the town had forgotten about it. The people are religious, superstitious and fanatical. I was told that when the Roman bishop comes to town that even grown men kiss his feet as he passes through the streets. But there are many, especially among the men, who look for something better. Fortunately I know the German pastor there, and he offered us their church. We had bills printed and taken to every house. That afternoon I visited the football field with the son of the elder and had opportunity to talk with a few men. That evening we visited the club and met the business men, one of whom, the political chief of Lapa, showed us great kindness and invited me to go with him to his farm the following day. In other words, to bring Christ to the people and the people to Christ; for the so-called indifferent are the masses, who do not know Him who died for them, and with only the corrupt caricature of Christianity which is here, have little hope of ever knowing Him. If any one there has any doubts about the obligations of the church to bring Christ to Roman Catholic countries, may that appeal, from a Brazilian Roman Catholic, which I have just quoted, sink into good soil. I preached there three nights. The little church was jammed, some stood, and others looked through the windows. God grant that the work begun may go on. The doors are open, and the fields white unto harvest. I left Lapa with invitations to come back soon and often.

Our next stop was Porto Amazonas, which is a very small village, no church spire appears among the few dwellings, and we hope to leave the stamp of the Gospel on the place while it is young and impressionable. I stayed with one of our families, which has moved there; the man, Sr. Augusto, is the village doctor, and his god wife teaches the school. He seems to have the gift of healing; never took a course in medicine. While he had a bakery in the village so many calls came to look after the sick (for no doctor lived there) that Sr. Augusto gave up the bakery and devoted himself to medicine. He studies continually, is a friend of a well known doctor of Curitiba, and has cured some remarkable cases. There are no fixed prices for doctors in Brazil, and as in the period of the Judges in the Old Testament, "Every man does that which is right in his own eyes," which often means prices which are little short of robbery. Sr. Augusto has the confidence of the people, and we hope he will use his great opportunity. So much of our work in Brazil depends on the courage and faithfulness of one man, or a few. The meetings were held in the railroad station. The first night we were disturbed some by a drunk man on the platform outside; but the second and third nights he came in quietly and listened to the Gospel message. I was impressed by the friendliness of the people. The daughters of two families are in our school in Curitiba, and the son of one of these families recently joined the Presbyterian church of Curitiba with his father's consent.

I arrived home in Curitiba on March 22nd with gratitude to God for his "present help" and with a new vision of the work to be done in S. Brazil.

After six days work with Mr. Leighton in Curitiba, I went to Castro, where we have had a church for years, and where we have just opened a school to teach boys and girls to work, and to prepare teachers and ministers. The school opened in January and has an excellent start. The best part of it is the confidence of the people. If the doors were opened to all regardless of religious qualifications, there would soon be a school of some hundred students. But the Mission's ideal is a school small in numbers, intensive in its work, to get a few on fire for Christ rather than to signify warm many. The building is not yet completed, and in the afternoons the boys are working on it; it is their course in carpentry, and they work with enthusiasm. Those who are not working on the building grab out stumps or plow with oxen in a field recently covered with timber and brush, where the roots teach many a lesson of patience as well as skill in handling oxen and plow under difficulties. Mr. and Mrs. Midkiff do all the work of teaching and administering the school, and the fifteen hungry boys who live in their family keep them busy.

The influence of the school is already telling in Castro. Last November when we were there for Mission meeting a merchant, decided to accept Jesus Christ. But his wife is a Roman Catholic and he feared for the future. When I was there this time I found both his sons in the new school; both are doing well, and one especially is showing extraordinary enthusiasm for the Bible. Their mother was very friendly; she is seeing the results of Bible Christianity in the lives of her sons and husband. I think she too will soon be a follower of Jesus. I was very grateful for the far of peaches she gave me, not only because of the peaches, which are not common here, "because that jar of peaches was a sign that the seed sown was beginning to bear fruit."

On the way home I stopped three days in Ponta Grossa where Mr. and Mrs. Landes are working. Ponta is a city of about ten thousand inhabitants. Rev. Chamberlain and others have preached there but the work has never taken hold. But now Mr. Landes seems to be making some progress. In our meetings there two renewed their allegiance to the Master and eight others expressed their desire to follow Him whom to know is life. You can imagine how thankful we were.

We are back in Curitiba. Mr. Leighton goes home on Thursday soon and I am taking his work as treasurer of the Mission. As soon as the books are audited and turned over and the annual report sent to New York I shall return to places already visited.

We are all well and happy in the new work, and feel that great opportunities lie before us. Pray for us. I feel that Brazil will turn to Christ, even if the work has always been hard and slow. There is noticeable in many places signs of spiritual awakening among the people. "He is faithful that promised."

I saw in a church paper an account of the "Billy" Sunday meetings in controversy, and his theological controversy with Dr. Elliot. What an interesting duel, a baseball defender of the orthodox forces against the scholastic representative of extreme liberalism. I hope "Billy" fans him out. However, personality not theology is in the contest. The prophet's live coal has touched Sunday till he burns and shines with a moral enthusiasm which is contagious. Who care. No amount of intellectual analysis changes the lives of men. There are plenty of them who have analyzed their case, but they don't change. I think the truth is somewhere between the position set forth in the inside of the cup which we have been reading and the example seen in "Billy" Sunday.

Well, Mother, I must close and study my sermon for Sunday. Lots of love to all. Take care of yourself. Remember you are not a spring chicken and do not "over-do."

Much more might be said—but as the Brazilians say: "Fica para outro dia."

Your loving son,
C. A. Carriel.

HAVE GOOD GARDEN.

It is worth one's while to visit the open air school and see the pupils working their garden. Miss Hammond had them at work Monday and they seem to enjoy doing such things. The garden is in excellent condition and should furnish a large proportion of the vegetables for the school if it is continued throughout the summer months.

Judge Guy C. Williams and A. D. Cullinane of Havana spent Monday evening in the city enroute to Quincy on business matters.

MILLIONS ARE LOST FROM PLANT DISEASE

LITTLE HAS BEEN DONE UNTIL RECENTLY TO PREVENT IT.

Tremendous Economic Drain Represented by Yearly Ravages of Various Plant Maladies—Why a Working Knowledge of Vegetable Pathology is Necessary for the Farmer.

(By C. C. Rees, Assistant in Floricultural Pathology, Department of Horticulture, University of Illinois.)

Why should the farmer acquire a general knowledge of plant diseases and the methods of preventing them, and to what extent is he benefited by such knowledge? For anyone interested directly or indirectly in the production of maximum crops, sound and free from disease, there can be but one solution to this question. In all probability the loss in Illinois alone by the ravages of plant disease reaches $10,000,000 annually; up to a comparatively recent date, little has been done to check this constantly increasing drain on the resources of this great agricultural state. Of late years, however, botanists, horticulturists, and agriculturists the world over have been devoting a great deal of time to the study of plant diseases and methods of control. The Federal department of Agriculture in co-operation with the various state agricultural experiment stations is thus increased, for it is only with the hearty and capable co-operation of the farmers that such work can progress successfully.

Should Recognize on Sight. The farmer should be able to recognize his worst disease enemies and should be familiar with methods of controlling them. He should be able to recognize the smuts and rusts of cereals; the rusts, leaf-spots, and blights of orchard crops; the blights of potatoes, tomatoes, and other vegetables, as well as many other diseases which are constantly appearing to cause him trouble. He should know that by soaking his seed wheat and oats in a 0.1 per cent formalin solution before planting, he assures himself of crops free from smut. He should know that the presence of cedar invites rust on his apple trees and accordingly attend to the removal of all cedars within a mile of his orchard. He should learn that by spraying his potato vines with Bordeaux mixture, at intervals of two weeks after July 20, he can prevent the late blight or rot of this crop. Needless to say, he should spray. His information is at hand. He should take no chances on losing a large part or all of his crop because of ignorance of the nature of his trouble.

The local economic importance of this subject is well brought out in a statement made by Wm. G. Eckhardt in the Dekalb County Farmer for March 1, 1914. Mr. Eckhardt said: "The State Board of Agriculture valued the oats in Dekalb county, August 1, 1913 at $1245,186. During the two seasons past, we did not visit half a dozen farms that contained as little as 5 per cent smut in oats. A great many counts were made and the average percentage of infection was more than twice that much. If we assume only a 5 per cent loss from smut in 1913 and take August the first value for oats, there was lost to Dekalb county farmers, last year $65,536, every dollar of which could have been saved with an outlay of two cents per acre, a small amount of labor, and the extra cost of threshing."

Every Farmer Should Learn. Similar conditions exist in practically every county in the state where oats are grown, and if the loss is not occasioned by smut, it is caused by some other disease that may be as easily checked or prevented. This loss, which over the entire country amounts to many millions of dollars annually, could be reduced amazingly were every farmer to adopt timely measures to prevent the occurrence of these troubles.

Agricultural colleges everywhere are offering and are requiring their students to take a course of instruction which will enable them to meet these and similar situations. Agricultural pursuits are making wonderful strides and the education, along this line of the young man of today who tomorrow will be in charge of the cultivation of our farms, is practically imperative. The course as given at the University of Illinois is complete in every respect and meets admirably the universal

COOKERY DEMONSTRATION AT UNIVERSITY OF ILLINOIS

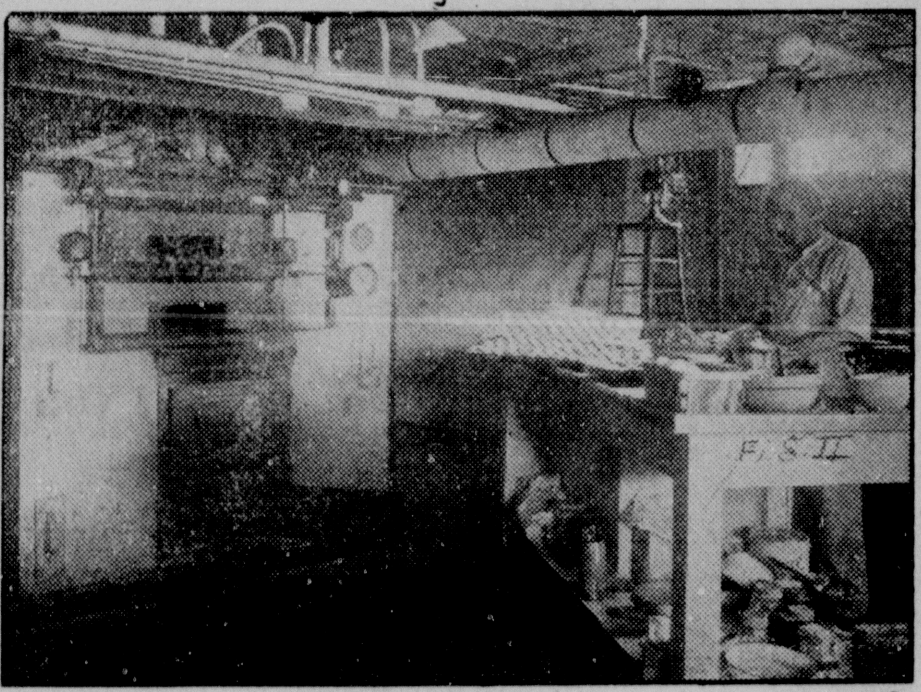

Making of Bread, Rolls, Pies and Cakes Included in interesting Exemplification of Best Household Methods.

(By Isabel Bevier, Household Science Department, University of Illinois.) A most interesting series of demonstrations were given at the University of Illinois April 26-30 under the auspices of the Household Science Department.

The work included the making of bread, rolls, pies, cakes, and some of the unusual forms of pastry. The demonstrators had had long experience in commercial bake shops and in the technique of his trade, though he said frankly he could not give the scientific reason for many of his results. His manipulation of materials, the elimination of unnecessary motions, and the efficiency of those used, were a constant source of surprise and admiration. The making of Parker House rolls, macaroons, lady fingers and yards of cinnamon rolls seemed an interesting sleight of hand performance. The use of scales rather than the measuring cup and the ways in which proportions and combinations were given showed such demonstrations implied the use of the head as well as the hand.

The Department has these demonstrations to supplement its class room work. It is not to be expected that the students in the Department can acquire skill which requires years of experience, but it is hoped by these demonstrations to show standards of skill and proficiency which shall cause the onlookers to consider carefully their own processes and products.

This was the second in the series of demonstrations, the first being given by Miss Anna Barrows of Boston. Both demonstrators are skilled workmen entirely familiar with the possible uses of their material and able, apparently, to control them at will. One cannot witness such demonstrations without having increased respect for the skilled hand and for the training which is implied in it. After or rather careful work for three years in the processes and products used in the food work, the students appreciated the opportunity to see skillful practice and to interpret results in the terms of their own academic training. The "baker" said frankly that he could not give the scientific reason; the students said that they could not show the skill of hand but would go home and work for it. In the new housekeeping, of which there is so much said, one realizes that the ideal includes both technique and scientific knowledge. That way lies real improvement in the processes of household management.

demand for scientific farming methods. Particular attention is paid to the diseases that commonly occur on farm crops. The popularity of the course is ample evidence of the fact that the importance of this phase of agriculture as well as the necessity of meeting it efficiently, is being generally realized.

The farmer should avail himself of every opportunity to broaden his knowledge of plant disease. Even though his crops may never have suffered an attack of any serious disease, which in an agricultural state as old as Illinois is very unlikely, he should keep in touch with the work that the United States government and the various experiment stations are doing. As "an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure" just so is a handful of information when needed most, so to speak, more valuable by far than volumes of it when it is too late. Every farmer should by all means familiarize himself with at least the symptoms of the more common plant diseases. He should make sure that his name is on the mailing list of his own experiment station and on that of the Federal Department of Agriculture for bulletins pertaining to work accomplished on diseases of plants. The application of knowledge gained in this way will do wonders toward producing good, healthy crops. No one is more directly dependent upon plant life than the farmer, and what ever he does to improve the general condition of the source of his livelihood must necessarily result in a direct benefit to himself and to the economic condition of the nation.

HOW TO SECURE BEST AIR FOR THE HOME

POSITIVE SYSTEM OF VENTILATION NECESSARY.

A Well Designed and Properly Constructed System for the Farm Residence—Cost Need Not be Excessive.

(By Arthur C. Willard, University of Illinois.)

The air required for the farm home should be of particularly satisfactory quality at all seasons of the year. The source is ideal—the air of the open country—and during those months when doors and windows may be left open perfect ventilation is readily attainable at no cost. We are especially concerned, however, not with the months when direct natural ventilation is possible and desirable, but with the longer season, of from seven to eight months when the outdoor air cannot be supplied directly and windows and doors are kept tightly closed. During this period the air in the house may change on the average about once an hour, instead of once in 5 or 10 minutes as in the summer season, unless a positive system of ventilation is provided.

It is obvious that the ventilation system must not only supply fresh outdoor air but must heat it to a comfortable room temperature of about 70 degrees at the same time, hence we find a serious limitation due to cost in the practical application of unlimited ventilation in cold weather. Moreover, we must certainly supply whatever heat is given off from the building. We are, therefore, concerned during the heating season with limiting the outside air supply to the minimum necessary, which in many cases becomes zero if no provision for ventilation is made. The heating requirements, however, cannot be neglected in any such fashion and provision for supplying heat to each room is necessary.

The choice must then be made between a system which can be used for heating only, or a system which can be used for heating and at the same time supply air for ventilation in such proportions as the operator may feel that he can afford, for in the winter months ventilation is somewhat of a luxury.

The warm air furnace system readily fulfills these latter conditions, serving both to provide for reasonable ventilation and to supply the heat lost from the building in cold weather. Unfortunately the requirements of good ventilation and the conditions and limitations under which the furnace system must operate are often not understood by either the owner of the home, or the designer of the system. As a result we find the following familiar arrangement of this system of supplying air and heat. Cost to operate: 1. Cost to operate dry; 2. Air entirely too dry; 3. Air overheated and smells scorched or burned; 4. Air contaminated by coal gas or smoke.

The advantages of a well designed and properly operated system in which the above faults are lacking are so desirable that it is well worth while to discuss these shortcomings and explain to the owner or prospective owner of a home how they may be overcome or avoided.

Cost Need Not be Excessive. A furnace system need be practically no more expensive to operate than a steam or hot water furnace system, provided the same amount of ventilation exists in each case. To accomplish this result it is only necessary to recirculate the air within the house, which, by the way, should always be installed for use in mild weather. The saving in cost of heating by using recirculation air at 70 degrees as compared with all outside air at 0 degrees is readily shown as follows: In the former case each pound of air is heated from 70 degrees to 180 degrees, and in cooling down to 70 degrees gives up enough heat to make up the heat loss from the building. In the latter case each pound of air is heated from zero to 180 degrees, and since it is not returned to the furnace after cooling to 70 degrees all the heat is lost when it is discharged from the building at the latter temperature.

ture. The relative costs of these two systems is 180-0 180 1.64

180-70 110 or for every ton of coal required by the recirculation system 1.64 tons will be required by the system using all outside air. The writer believes it advisable to use practically all recirculated air when the outside temperature is much below 32 degrees, since the infiltration around windows and doors is much increased at these low temperatures and sufficient air for ventilation will enter in this way.

It is therefore advisable to install a recirculating duct having the same total area as the sum of all the warm air leader pipes, and to make the cold air duct about 75 degrees of this area. The recirculating register is usually placed in the first floor hall and its net free area should be the same as the area of the duct. This register should not be in the floor, where it will prove unsanitary, but in the face of a hall seat, or the side of the stairway.

The cost of operation is also much increased if the furnace casing and leader pipes in the basement are left uncovered. A three ply asbestos air cell covering about 1/4 inch thick should be used for this purpose.

The vertical stacks to upper floors should also be covered or double walled and run in inside partitions only. All studding spaces must be closed off at the basement ceiling and at the attic floor level, or the amount of heat lost from the building will be unnecessarily large.

A later article will discuss the humidity of the air in the furnace system.

SEWAGE DISPOSAL WITHOUT DANGER

ILLINOIS WATER SURVEY ENDEAVORS TO SOLVE PROBLEM.

Blowing Air Through Sewage is Cardinal Principle—Tests are Made For Fertilizing Qualities of Dried Sediment or Sludge.

One of the great problems of our large cities, of our small towns and sometimes even of our farms, is how to dispose of sewage without endangering the health of the community, causing a nuisance and without too great expense. From every viewpoint, health, nuisance and expense, it is a matter of vital interest to every citizen of the state.

The Illinois State Water Survey, realizing the importance of this to the people, undertook a few months ago an investigation that promises well to be a solution of the problem.

The experiment following a scheme suggested by Dr. G. J. Fowler of Manchester, England, consists in blowing air through the sewage, and particularly through the sediment, or sludge, so that purification (or nitrification as it is called) may be brought about in a few days or even a few hours when conditions are just right. By this method a great saving on cost of construction of sewage purification plants can be made and also a reduction of the amount of land required for the plant.

Another part of the experiment consisted in testing the fertilizing qualities of the dried sediment or sludge.

It is impossible to go far into details but there are a few leading and interesting facts that we will endeavor to set forth.

Fresh sewage from the Champaign sewers is placed in a tank, one sixth to one fourth full of so-called activated sludge. Compressed air is forced through a porous plate near the bottom of the tank which stirs up the sewage and sludge. When purification is complete the sediment is allowed to settle and the purified sewage is drawn off by means of a siphon. Fresh sewage is added and the process continued. Now a curious thing is accomplished by this sludge or sediment during the treatment with air. The raw sewage showed a bacteriological content of 3,000,000 per cubic centimeter and the purified liquid after aeration and settling showed but 40,000.

In the sediment itself an examination revealed many microscopic organisms but the predominant organism is a worm—an annelid worm from about 2 to 5 millimeters in length and very slender. Apparently the increase of oxygen in the sewage when air is blown in, causes the rapid multiplication of these worms which feed on the decaying organic matter in the sewage and thus purification is brought about. In other words, the evil bacteria are largely exterminated, the beneficial organisms encouraged and conditions brought about so that they can thrive and work in the interests of the human kind.

Chemical analysis of the sludge showed that it contained nitrogen and phosphorus which at retail market prices should be worth $29 per ton.

In order to determine whether this theoretical value would correspond to the actual value pot cultures were started the results of which are very gratifying. The accompanying cut shows that the pots—number 3 and 4—receiving the dried sludge as a fertilizer, have produced greater growths than the one numbered 2, containing an equivalent amount of nitrogen from dried blood and far better growth than pot number 1, to which no nitrogen was added.

Thus far so good. The next step is to demonstrate whether it can be accomplished economically on a large scale.

To accomplish this the energies of the State Water Survey will now be given in connection with its other duties in obtaining and maintaining purer water supplies for the citizens of the State.

COCOANUT OIL FINE FOR WASHING HAIR

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, the less soap you use the better.

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Just plain mulsed cocoanut oil (which is pure and entirely greaseless), is much better than soap or anything else you can use for shampooing, as this can't possibly injure the hair.

Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. One or two teaspoonfuls will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily, and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get mulsed cocoanut oil at most any drug store. It is very cheap, and a few ounces is enough to last everyone in the family for months.

A STATEMENT TO THE PUBLIC.

(By Dick Reynolds.)

Editor Journal:

As long as I have been made a public target through the press by Mr. Collins and certain members of the Board of Education, in their sweater controversy, in justice to myself I want to make my side of the proposition clear.

In the first place, I was never notified of the meeting of the football boys called by Mr. Collins at 8:30 or 9:00 o'clock Friday, May 21. Neither was I informed or notified to return my sweater to Brennan's store before two p. m., Friday, May 21. Had I been told of the actions of the other fellows, and of the meeting Friday morning, there is no doubt but what I would have fallen in line with the rest, as this was not done for spite, stubbornness or disrespect to anyone, only through innocence of the proceedings of the others.

It was also stated that someone is behind me in this matter. I want to say right here that I believe there are two sides to every question, and everyone has perfect freedom of his ideas. The statements I have published and the ideas I have on this question are of my own absolutely.

In January I signed an agreement with the members of the football team to refuse the sweaters, which had been ordered for us by the citizens until the end of the year, this being done to keep the high school from being suspended from the State Athletic Association. It was generally understood at that time that at the end of the year the seniors could accept theirs.

Hearing of others wearing our sweaters around town and seeing one of the other boys with his, Monday morning I went down to Mr. Brennan's and received mine, put it on and wore it home, where it has remained ever since. I did not do this intentionally to violate any law or to cause the school any trouble, also knowing these sweaters were purchased with funds subscribed by public-minded citizens and given to the boys and not to the Board, superintendent or the Athletic Association of the J. H. S. I felt perfectly free to get "my" sweater as my school work was over and without any maliciousness or to violate any laws or rules.

On Wednesday I was called to the school to make a written statement in regard to sweater question, which I did without insult or injury to anyone, but at the end I did say, "Under no consideration would I return the sweater," spoken in a moment of resentment at conduct of others.

I was seen near the school about two o'clock (as one of the members of the Board stated). Had I known of the meeting in the morning, and the demand of the return of the sweaters by two o'clock, and was I wilfully disobeying or disregarding Mr. Collins and the Board's demands, I should have been as far from the school as possible.

In every position which I have filled during my four years of high school work I have tried to observe every law or rule of the same and at the same time keep in harmony with every faction of the students, and I think the faculty will bear me out in this statement.

Here I want to say to the three boys (all members of the senior class) who have been envious of me during my senior year, not only in school but on the outside—and have been tale-bearers to the superintendent and Board of all my movements and conversations—Be Men and come say what you have to say about me to my face.

I hear Mr. Collins is insulted at what I said in a former statement, made at the request of the Courier reporter and before I knew of my suspension, when I called this a "petty controversy". I did so from my own view and without reference to anyone or insult to anyone and I have no apologies to make to anyone.

I realize there must be discipline in all schools and forced when necessary, but when pupils are juniors and seniors, they are no longer children but young men and women with wills and minds of their own and should be treated with deference.

I feel I have been dealt with unjustly as I was not informed of the Friday morning meeting, notified to return my sweater by two o'clock, nor my parents or I notified of my suspension only through the public press.

AROUND HOME

Had Dogs in Cistern—Tony Blusk, of Springfield, who was arrested when deputies from the sheriff's office found in a cistern in the rear of his yard eight or nine half-starved dogs, will be given a hearing before Justice Reilly on a charge of Cruelty to animals.

Paving in Beardstown—Several miles of new paving will be laid this summer and when it is completed Beardstown will have more well paved streets than any other town of its size in Illinois. There is more than ten miles of pavement in use in the city now.

Cut Throat; Dies—Despondent since a month ago when the engagement with a local young woman was broken, Thomas Stewart, 38 years old, a member of the cement contracting firm of Stewart & Strine of Clinton, ended his life in the basement of his brother-in-law's home, George Strine, by cutting his throat from ear to ear. He severed the jugular vein and death was almost instantaneous.

Kill Ground Hogs—The slaughtering of ground hogs in Fulton county has proved a profitable business to follow, to say nothing of the sport. In the last two weeks County Clerk Austin Union has paid the bounty on about 100 ground hogs killed in that county. One fellow from Lee township killed 47. The county pays a bounty of 25 cents per head.

Administration Building—The administration building at the University of Illinois will be completed by July 15 and will be occupied by President James and other officers by next fall.

Young Man Confesses—After two hours questioning by the police, Roy Dulan, aged 19 years, confessed that he was the negro who entered the room of Miss Maria Smith at Deatur about 3 o'clock Friday morning and after threatening her with a knife, escaped, taking her gold watch with him.

Gave $1,000 to Church—At a meeting of the Ladies' Missionary society of Kincaid held at the home of Mrs. Alexander in Taylorville, $1,000 was pledged by the ladies as their part of the new church building which is to be built soon in Kincaid.

Roadmaster Dead—Division Roadmaster John Sullivan, for fifty-eight years in the service of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy, is dead at Galesburg.

Gives "Sun Parlor"—Hon. L. D. Hirsheimer of Pittsfield, has furnished and endowed a beautiful "sun parlor" in the Odd Fellows' Old Folks home at Mattoon, in memory of his father and mother, the late Samuel Hirsheimer and wife. The elder Mr. Hirsheimer was at the time of his death the oldest Odd Fellow in the state and the tenets of that order were very dear to his heart. The sun room in the Old Folks home is certainly a fitting tribute to their memory from a loving son.—Pittsfield Democrat.

Charge Police "Bootlegging"—Charging that Champaign police have been found in "bootlegging" houses drinking with other customers, Assistant Dean of Men Warlock of the University of Illinois, has offered to co-operate with Mayor Swigart of Champaign, who plants a clean-up of the police force. The mayor has appointed two new police commissioners.

Bluffs Commencement—The commencement exercises of the Bluffs high school will be held at the opera house Wednesday evening, May 26, at 8:30 o'clock. The address will be by Dr. David Felmley, who will speak on "Does the High School Pay?" The baccalaureate sermon will be Sunday, May 23, at the M. E. church by Rev. M. O. Beebe.

Plowing Up Oats—For the first time in many years farmers are plowing up their oats on account of the wild lettuce being so thick in the field as to spoil the entire crop near Gifford. John Crussing, Jr., plowed up a field of eighty acres, George Miller a field of fifteen acres, and John Buhr a field of fifteen acres. Practically all the fields of oats are affected with wild lettuce and it is probable that several other farmers will plow up fields within the next few days.

Want Bathing Beach—At a recent meeting of the "building grounds committee" of Beardstown, it was decided to recommend the securing of bathing beaches to the council. On every side approval was expressed, and from the neighboring towns, words commending the enterprise are sent in.

Desired Meeting; Fined—Frank Minnigan, a farm hand of Morrisonville, is now in the county jail laying out a fine of $5 and costs, $56, sum total being $61 for disturbing the peace of the Evergreen school house in King township, near Morrisonville. The young man did not like the quality of entertainment that was being given at the last day of school exercises and made unkind remarks about them.

Fit to suspend me publicly, and deprive me of graduation and my diploma, after these many years of laborious work to attain this degree of honor, I am man enough to take the medicine, but they cannot take away my education.

It is not what the best men are, but what they do, that constitutes their truest benefaction to their fellow-men.

LAND O'NOD STORIES

THE ECHO FAIRY

"Ho Tinker! Yoe-ee-e Tinker Tee-die Tee" called Billy Be by Bo Bum as he trudged along the bed of the dried up creek that wound its crooked way through the White Forest, but although he called and called, the merry little elf did not answer. So he trudged on and on, scanning the snow carpeted floor of the big woods for Tinker's tracks, and stopping every little while to shout at the top of his voice, but the only answer he received was the mocking shriek of Busy body the Bluejay who scopped quarreling with Frisky the Red Squirrel long enough to scold the little boy for making such a frightful racket, and Busybody, you know, is just about the noisiest old rascal of all the Little People.

Billy had never before been in this part of the big wood but he was not frightened, no sir, not a bit of it, for he knew that as long as Frisky the Red Squirrel and Busybody were chattering away, there was no real danger about just the same. He was rather lonesome, although he whistled as loud as he could to keep himself company.

For some time the banks of the creek had been getting higher and higher, until at last Billy found himself walking along the bottom of a deep ravine, the sides of which were as straight and steep as a stone wall.

"Ho Tinker! Yoe-ee-e Tinker Tee-die Tee!" shouted Billy again, and before the words were out of his mouth there was an answering shout of "Ho Tinker! Yoe-ee-e Tinker Tee-die Tee!"

Billy was so surprised he nearly jumped out of his shoes for the voice seemed to come out of the side of the ravine right above his head.

"Oh Tinker where are you?" shout ed Billy, and "Oh Tinker where are you" called back the same voice.

"Tinker, Tinker come here, I want you right away," called Billy, and "Tinker, Tinker come here, I want to see you right away," mocked the mysterious voice.

Billy now was really and truly frightened, there was no mistake about that, for although he looked high and low, he could not see the owner of the voice. And to make matters worse Frisky and Busybody had now stopped chattering and the White Forest was so still Billy could hear his heart thump, thumping like a trip hammer.

"It's a Goblin! It's a Goblin! Come save me Tinker, come save me," cried Billy as he ran away from the ravine as fast as his fat little legs would carry him, and as he ran he heard the mysterious voice call: "It's a Goblin. It's a Goblin. Come save me Tinker, come save me."

Well sir, Billy never stopped running until he reached the stump fence that separated the cow pasture from the White Forest, and there he saw Tinker Teedle Tee swinging from the branch of a briar bush.

"Why where have you been?"

If You Suffer with Chronic Disease Let Me Cure You

COME AND CONSULT ME FREE AT THE DUNLAP HOTEL FROM 9 A. M. WEDNESDAY, MAY 26, UNTIL 3 P. M. THURSDAY, MAY 27.

DR. EDWIN O. GABLE, Neuropathic Specialist.

My new Neuropathic system of treatment cures chronic diseases by removing the impurities from the blood, by restoring normal circulation and secretions, and by relieving the pressure on, and irritation of the nerves. When this is done almost every chronic case is bound to get well, no matter what organ of the body is affected. I have had the most remarkable success in giving relief to many chronic cases where other treatments had failed. No matter how long you have suffered or what your disease is or who has pronounced you incurable, I ask you to come to me. Let me examine you and see if you can be cured by this new system of treatment. I will give you an examination and my professional opinion free of charge.

This new system is very successful in all forms of chronic diseases. It gives immediate relief to irritation and weakness of the muscles and nerves of the heart. I absolutely believe that I can cure almost every case of acute and chronic Rheumatism, no matter in what form or how much you have suffered. It removes the rheumatic poison from the blood. This treatment gives speedy relief to kidney diseases, irritation and diseases of the bladder, and all forms of weakness of these organs. It cures blood diseases, skin troubles such as eczema, pimples, etc. It gives immediate relief to stomach troubles, dyspepsia, fermentation, cures constipation and liver troubles and nervous diseases.

Read what Mr. Watkins has to say:

April 21, 1915.

To Whom It May Concern:

I had been a sufferer with asthma and heart trouble since childhood and for the last four years had suffered agonies with it almost continuously. I could not sleep nor work and on the slightest exertion would have to gasp for breath, had smothering spells and dizzy spells, and at times felt that the end had come. I had tried many doctors, and treatments without any benefit, but three months ago I decided to consult Dr. E. O. Gable and started treatment with him, and since then have improved steadily and am now feeling fine, have no more of the old awful symptoms and know that I am cured. I can honestly and cheerfully recommend any one suffering as I did to him for honest treatment, for he has done wonders for me.

J. H. WATKINS, Route 6, Mattoon, Illinois.

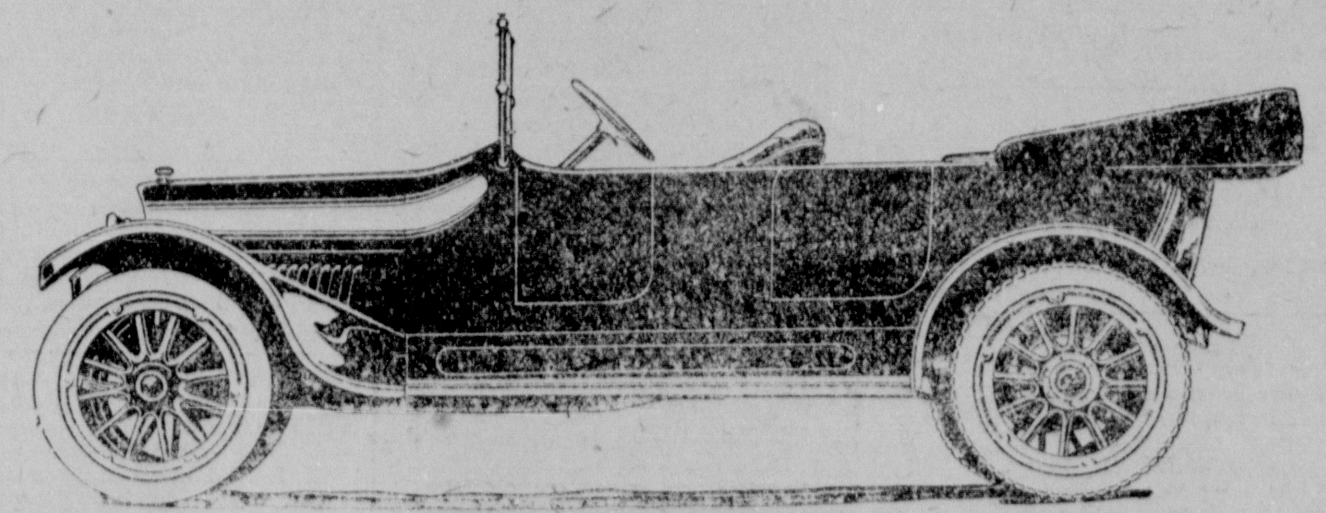

This is but one of the many cases that show the great results I am getting with this new system of treatment.

I want you to understand that I do not pretend to cure every case of these troubles. If the disease has too badly destroyed the structures I see the case is incurable. This is why it is necessary for me to make a personal examination of each case. I must see exactly what the trouble is, then I can tell you positively what I can do for you. I treat all curable forms of chronic diseases and weaknesses of the eyes, failing sight, catarrh and deafness, head noises and sick headache. If you suffer, come and see me. There will be no charge for consultation and examination to all who call this trip. I am making regular visits to Jacksonville each month and I want to examine and treat as many people as possible to show them that my new remarkable system of treating diseases is the most scientific treatment. Remember, I invite every sufferer, rich or poor, to call on me this trip. It may mean everything to you. Let me demonstrate my new system of treatment. Office hours: 9 to 12 and 1 to 5 and 7 to 8.

DOWN'S MURDER CASE CALLED IN CIRCUIT COURT

Jury Selected and Opening Statement Made by State's Attorney—W. N. Hairgrove Appears for Defendant—Emotional Insanity May Be Plea.

Emotional insanity or the "Unwritten Law" probably will be the line of defense. Frank Downs' attorney will follow in his trial now in progress in the circuit court, charged with the murder of Fred Burton Monday afternoon. William N. Hairgrove appeared for the defendant while State's Attorney Robert Tilton and Paul Samuel represented the people.

Before entering on the selection of a jury Mr. Hairgrove made a motion to quash the indictment and each count thereof. The motion was overruled and defendant excepted. The defendant having been served with a copy of the indictment waived arraignment and entered a plea of not guilty.

The work of selecting a jury occupied but a short time and at 4:45 o'clock it had been chosen. The jury is composed of the following: Walter Vortman, C. W. Esser, William McCullough, H. Nouditt, Erham McCullough, Frank Foster, Charles Duffer, George M. Spies, John Hodgson, Ralph Reynolds, Thomas Stevenson, W. C. Wilday. At 5 o'clock State's Attorney Tilton made the opening statement for the people. Mr. Tilton read from the law the difference between murder and manslaughter and said it was expected to prove emotional insanity. At the conclusion of Mr. Tilton's statement Judge Burton adjourned court until 9 o'clock this morning when Mr. Hairgrove will present the defendant's case to the jury.

The charge for which Downs is on trial is the shooting of Fred White at the latter's residence on East College avenue on April 23 of this year. White had lost his wife and a few months after her death Downs and his wife moved into White's house where Mrs. Downs acted as a housekeeper. It is alleged that Downs became jealous of White and when his wife refused to leave the house he procured a revolver and shot White, killing him almost instantly. Downs surrendered himself to the officer and the grand jury returned an indictment against him charging murder in the first degree.

It is probable that the trial of the case will be of short duration. Un-

BOILER HOUSE AT LIGHT PLANT IS COMPLETED

When Engines Have Been Installed the Total Expenditure Will be $100,000.

The new building housing the boiler plant at the Jacksonville Railway and Light company's plant has been completed. Work was commenced last October by the contractor Joseph DeGoveia and the general supervision of all the work was done by W. R. Morrison. The building cost $15,000, the new stock $8,000 and the boilers and accessories $32,000. When the work of installing new engines is completed the company will have expended approximately $100,000 resulting in one of the most complete light and power plants in the middle west.

Installed in the new boiler house are two batteries of boilers, containing a total of 1,600 horse power. There also is a new super heater, new piping and two triplex boiler feed pumps. The company has provided a bath room with shower and lavatory for employees. In making room for the placing of new engines the company removed the old boilers which were located in the west end of the building occupied by the engine room. These boilers were sold to a light plant at McGregor, Iowa.

After the removal of the old boilers the wall between the boiler room and the engine was removed. Work is now in progress for the concreting of this additional space which will add twice the floor space to the engine room.

When this work is completed and the temple set a new engine of 500 kilowatt capacity will be installed. The two old belt generators will then be disposed of and a direct connected generator having the same capacity of the two combined will be placed. The installation of a new switch board also will be among the improvements. When everything is complete the plant will have ample power for all purposes.

SPRING FESTIVAL BY CHORUS OF ILLINOIS COLLEGE

Gounod's Faust to be Given Friday Next—Musicians Have Taken a Great Interest in Work.

The annual Spring Festival Concert, given by Illinois College Chorus Conservatory, will take place on next Friday evening, May 28th, in State street church. The work to be presented this spring is Gounod's opera, Faust, and the Illinois College Chorus and the Conservatory Orchestra will co-operate in the performance under the direction of Mr. Krich. This opera, the most famous and most popular one ever composed, has never been given in Jacksonville in concert form, though it has had several performances with scenery and costume. It is a master work, not only on account of its moving story, but—perhaps even more—on account of its inspired music, which shows the great French composer at his best. Goethe's poetic drama, Faust, has been used as an operatic libretto by many composers, but by none so successfully as by Gounod, in spite of the un-German character of the music. There is hardly an uninteresting bar in the whole score, and the solo parts are most grateful for the singer, without exception.

The Chorus has taken an unusual interest in this opera, as there is much variety in the chorus parts, and some of the music is quite familiar. The well-known "Soldiers' Chorus" has been sung before at a Spring Festival, in 1910, at Westminster church, and was exceedingly well received at that time. The "Kermesse," the Waltz chorus and the majestic final Chorale, are all most stirring, and promise to be well sung as rehearsals have been well attended and much enthusiasm has been felt by the singers.

The soloists are all, with one exception, students of Mrs. Genevieve Clark Wilson, of the Conservatory. Miss Rebecca Scheibel takes the part of Marguerite, whose music suits her voice well. Mrs. A. Wehl will have both the role of Siebel and that of Martha, which include two charming solos. Mr. Viggo Jensen is singing Mephistopheles, a part which he undertakes for the first time, and is singing with excellent interpretation. The roles of Valentine and Wagner are being taken by Messrs. Earl Pond and Dean Cochran.

Mr. Clark Shipp, of Springfield, whose singing in Elijah in the winter made such a favorable impression, will have the important part of Faust. This beautiful tenor role suits his voice and temperament eminently, and he sings it with remarkable sympathy and understanding.

The accompaniment will be played by the String Orchestra and Mr. Munger, who will take the piano part. On account of the great length of the opera several parts, particularly in the fourth act will be omitted. The most important as well as most beautiful parts have, however, been included in the program. The tickets, which will be on sale, as usual, at Downs Music store, from Tuesday, May 25th, have been placed at an unusually low rate. There will be no unreserved seats, as the platform built for the occasion must be particularly extensive, but the prices for reserved seats will be only 25 and 50 cents.

ATTENTION ELKS.
The final arrangement for transportation to and from East St. Louis during the Elks convention, 25th to 27th, is to leave here on the regular train Wednesday at 6:15 a. m. and return by special train same day at Elks' convenience. E. P. Alexander, Secretary.

The members will go on the regular train Wednesday morning. The special returning will leave East St. Louis about 11:30 o'clock. It is expected that about 100 will make the trip.
